Jeskewitz Not Seeking Another Term

Today, after months of soul-searching and deliberation, I am announcing that I will not run for another term. The decision to retire from the Assembly was a very difficult one to make because I loved my twelve years as a legislator.

When I ran for the Assembly in 1996, I vowed to be true to myself and my best judgement, and I believe I did just that. I also believe I served the constituents of the 24th Assembly District with integrity and hard work. From Financial Modernization to Anti-Human Trafficking, I think we have accomplished many positive things for the 24th District and for the state.

In addition to crafting legislation, I have particularly enjoyed bringing stakeholders to the table for discussion, debate, and ultimately working toward decisions on issues that would best serve the interests of taxpayers. Leading and participating in study committees and task forces, meeting with local and state officials, working closely with constituents and communicating my goals and accomplishments to those I represent have all been critical components to doing this job to the best of my ability.

Serving the 24th district truly has been an honor and a privilege, and now, while I am still healthy and energetic, I need to turn the page to the next chapter of my life. It's been an incredible journey, and I thank everyone for this wonderful opportunity to be their voice in Madison.
