Representative Genrich Announces Formation of Democratic Study Group

Today, State Representative Eric Genrich (D-Green Bay) announced the formation of the Democratic Study Group, an affiliation of Democratic lawmakers who will convene periodic forums to discuss pressing problems and progressive policy solutions.

“For too long Democrats have seemed to concede the battle of ideas to our Republican friends. The Democratic Study Group has formed with the clear intention of holding open and honest discussions about how to strengthen our state and improve the lives of Wisconsinites,” said Genrich.

The first forum is entitled “Improving the State of our State - a Better Path Forward for Working Wisconsinites.” Participating guests include Laura Dresser, labor economist, UW Madison, COWS (formerly Center on Wisconsin Strategy)*; Robert Kraig, executive director of Wisconsin Citizen Action; and David Riemer, senior fellow at the Public Policy Institute. The presentation is free and open to the public and the media, and it will be followed by a question-and-answer period.

Genrich continued, “The time for bold thinking and acting is now - citizens across the state and country are fed up with the political and economic status quo. It is up to us to demonstrate that Democrats are ready to listen and to lead with a bold agenda that is rooted in the interests of working people.”
