For immediate release

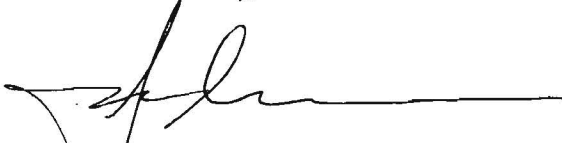

I was originally asked to run for public office to lend my skills in the great work underway in retooling and repositioning Wisconsin for the next century. I came to realize that to help my family, my grandchildren and my neighbors in the 88th district as well as the state in general, I needed to step off the sidelines and get involved.

To that end, my first term has been very productive in authoring, sponsoring and championing legislation that has helped families, businesses and municipalities. My goal remains to improve life, relieve red tape, reduce governmental burdens and restore opportunity to the people of the state that I love.

Throughout my personal and professional career I have learned that just because you CAN do something doesn't mean you SHOULD do something. The Bible reminds us that all things are possible, but not all things edify. The most edifying thing for me, my family and my constituents right now is to remain your state representative here in the Wisconsin legislature and continue to be your voice in job creation, education, tax reform and disability advocacy.

Therefore, my wife, Sue, and I have notified our family and advisory teams and respectfully wish my name be withdrawn from any consideration as a congressional candidate.

Sincerely,

John Macco
Representative WI 88th
