Taylor Refutes GOP's Censorship of Black History Honorees

Today, Senator Lena Taylor (D-Milwaukee) joined her colleagues in the legislature to vote on three items, one being a Republican tax bill, the second a resolution declaring March 1, 2019 as National Speech and Debate Education Day, and the third being a resolution proclaiming February, 2019 as Black History Month.

The Black History Month resolution, which honored a variety of individuals from the African-American community for their contributions, was amended by Republicans to remove the name of Colin Kaepernick, who believed he was "too controversial" of a figure to include.

Kaepernick, who was born in Wisconsin, has faced criticism for protesting against police brutality by peacefully sitting during the playing of the National Anthem, an act that changed to kneeling after a suggestion from U.S. Army Veteran Nate Boyer.

In response to the Republican's decision to censor this year's Black History Month Resolution, Senator Taylor released the following statement:

"Black History Month is about acknowledging how far we've come, but it's also about how far we've got to go. Republicans like Assembly Speaker Vos and Senate Majority Leader Fitzgerald set us back today. The forced censorship of names, selected by African-American legislators, to be included in the annual Black History Month Resolution, was a throwback to an ugly period in this nation's history.

Specifically, they objected to Colin Kaepernick's inclusion. Vos talked about wanting someone to bring us together. That is absolutely rich, considering who's the President. So on one hand they want to silence Kaepernick who protested police brutality, while supporting a President that encouraged it.

So to those who have asked me why not just remove Kaepernick's name so the others named in the resolution could be honored, my response is simple. It's like asking, why weren't Blacks content to ride at the back of the bus? It's because they always understood, that a white person could demand their seat, even in the section reserved for them. Rosa sat because she was tired. Colin kneeled because he was tired. Frankly, I am tired of other people trying to define the realities, challenges and voices of Black people."
