Now Looking Towards the November Election

RIB MOUNTAIN, Wis. - Nancy Stencil, candidate for the Wisconsin State Assembly in the 86th Assembly District released the following statement about the upcoming general election:

“The power of the Republican establishment is certainly on display in this election cycle. State Representative John Spiros was the first Republican assembly incumbent to face a primary challenge in six years. The establishment continues to strong-arm our state, while Madison politicians place their own interests ahead of the interests of the people of Wisconsin.”

“I look forward to having a spirited debate focused on the issues that actually matter to the people of our district. Issues like affordable healthcare, fixing our roads, and bringing good jobs that provide a living wage as well as benefits to working families should be at the forefront of all of our campaigns. I am now looking towards the November election.”

A life-long Marathon County resident, Stencil has lived in Rib Mountain for the last 30 years. She is a mental health professional in the crisis center at North Central. She announced her intention to run for the Wisconsin State 86th Assembly District as a Democrat in June.

Wisconsin’s 86th Assembly District includes parts of south-western Marathon and northern Wood counties, including the municipalities of Kronenwetter, Mosinee, Rib Mountain, Weston, and part of the city of Marshfield.
