

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 26, 2017

Contact: James Wigderson

Editor, RightWisconsin

262-422-7763

Will Wisconsin Democrats Answer About Their Ties to Russian Dossier Scandal?

WAUKESHA - RightWisconsin is reporting this morning on the ties between three prominent Democrats running for office in 2018 and the Russian dossier scandal reported by the Washington Post on Tuesday.

The Washington Post reported that Marc Elias and the law firm Perkins Coie was hired by the Clinton campaign and the Democratic National Committee to retain Fusion GPS to do the research contained in the now-infamous Russian dossier about President Donald Trump.

Elias and Perkins Coie are well-known to Wisconsin's Democrats. Elias was the political fixer hired by Democratic Senator Tammy Baldwin after it was reported her office ignored warnings about problems at the Tomah VA hospital.

Tim Burns, a candidate for state Supreme Court, and Josh Kaul, a candidate for Attorney General, are also attorneys with Perkins Coie.

You can read the whole story at RightWisconsin.com.

Russian Dossier Law Firm Perkins Coie Has Connections to Wisconsin Democrats

###