In The News: Scott Walker's Visits in Overdrive During Final Stretch of Campaign With energetic crowds across the state growing by the day

[Madison, Wis.] – With the countdown until the Election Day in the single-digits, Scott Walker is barnstorming the state to encourage volunteers, supporters and friends to make sure we're doing all we can to share our optimistic vision for the future with Wisconsin voters.

In contrast to Tony Evers' calls for more spending and higher taxes, Scott Walker discussed our plans for more jobs and higher wages. Our record of real leadership has reduced both the tax burden on families and burdensome regulation on small businesses. At each stop, Scott Walker encouraged volunteers to remain active during this campaign cycle to ensure that we keep Wisconsin working for generations to come.

Check out what's in the news:

From WSAW: "A gathering located at the Republicans Stevens Point field office, Governor Walker met with campaign volunteers and supporters to continue encouraging them to knock on doors and vote. Walker also used his time in Plover to attack his Democratic challenger, Tony Evers, by saying his tax plan would cause Wisconsin to go into a recession."

From the Chippewa Herald: "'From the moment he was sworn in as governor of our state, he made small business a top priority of his administration,' Smith said. 'As Governor, Scott Walker has consistently provided effective leadership for the agenda of small business. He has not only demonstrated that he is a small business leader and a small business Governor, but he is a true champion for our state's small business community.'"

From Fox 11 News: "'It's great to be back in the Fox Valley, really crisscrossing the state talking about how Wisconsin is working and getting that message out to volunteers who are then going out and knocking on doors, making phone calls, connecting with their neighbors, family, friends, folks they work with and worship with and tell them how Wisconsin is really working. We can't afford to go back down,' said Gov. Scott Walker.”

From the Journal Times: “You know why they’re spending in the big guns?’ Walker asked. ‘Because they don’t like that we took the power out of the hands of the big government special interests and put it into your hands, the hands of the hardworking taxpayers of the state.’”
