REP. HESSELBEIN STATEMENT ON RE-ELECTION AS ASSISTANT ASSEMBLY DEMOCRATIC LEADER

MADISON – Wisconsin Assistant Assembly Democratic Leader Dianne Hesselbein (D – Middleton) released the following statement regarding her re-election as the Assistant Leader of the Assembly Democratic Caucus:

“I am honored and privileged to have again earned the support of my colleagues for this important position within our caucus. More than ever before, our caucus possesses great depth in our life stories. I look forward to using these personal experiences to enrich and strengthen our caucus, and spread our message to every community across our state.

“I am excited for the potential of our caucus this coming legislative session and what we can achieve together, working as a team with our newly elected Democratic state-wide leaders who, for the first time in 33 years, hold every elective constitutional state office. Our caucus has an excellent opportunity to work with Governor-Elect Evers and the rest of our statewide officers to generate solutions that invest in opportunities and fairness for every child, person, and family in Wisconsin, regardless of affiliation or zip code.

“This coming session, we will fight to protect access to basic rights and services like healthcare, childcare, and family medical leave; we will fight to invest in our public schools and institutions of higher education so that our younger generations have the opportunities to get ahead in life; and we will fight to safeguard current and future economic security for families, so that they can pay their bills now and have the ability to retire later in life without overwhelming debt.”
