The following is the statement of Patty Schachtner following tonight's victory in the Democratic primary for Senate District 10:

A month and a half ago, I never would have imagined that I would be running for State Senate. I'm committed to fighting every day of the next month to make sure the values of the people of western Wisconsin are represented in Madison.

From defending health care to creating family-supporting jobs to protecting our environment, my message is simple - let's find common-sense solutions that put people first. I look forward to spending the next month talking with voters across the 10th about how I can best meet their needs.

Thank you so much to my fellow Democratic candidates, John Calabrese and Reuben Herfindahl, for your work over the past month to inspire our neighbors. I look forward to working with you to fight for the values we all share.
